First BJP govt in WB since Independence

It is the first time that a BJP government has come to power in Kolkata after almost 50 years of Left and TMC rule. But it hasn't been without controversy: outgoing CM Mamata Banerjee, who ruled the state for 15 years, refused to resign despite defeat, alleging rigging and other irregularities.

Mamata's close aide to foe

Adhikari played a key role in TMC's Nandigram stir, which was among the key reasons attributed for the end of the 24-year Left regime in Bengal and the beginning of the TMC govt. Differences surfaced in 2019 and he finally quit the TMC in 2021, later going on to lead the BJP's charge against the Mamata govt.

Bengal polls and Mamata's ouster

Following the election setback, Mamata alleged vote rigging and refused to resign. Her claim was backed by the INDIA bloc. The Governor finally dissolved the Assembly on Thursday, leading to her ouster from power.

Mamata calls for 'joint platform'

Mamata on Saturday urged all opposition parties in Bengal ito come together to form a "joint platform" to fight against the BJP govt . She also called upon student unions to unite against the saffron camp.

Shah hails BSY as leader who created a new path

CHITRADURGA

Union Home Minister Amit Shah said the five decades of public life and political struggle of former Karnataka Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa serve as an inspiration for the younger generation.

Speaking at the 'BSY Abhimanotsava' held to honour Yediyurappa on Saturday, Shah lauded his journey from a humble background to becoming one of Karnataka's most influential political leaders.

During the event, Shah released two books titled 'Kendavare-Kamala Aralida Kathe' and 'Sadana Shikari-Yediyurappanavara Gudugina Nudigalu'.

There are leaders who simply walk on existing roads and leaders who create new paths for others to follow, he said and described Yediyurappa as a leader who has shown a new direction.

"He came from an ordinary family. His willpower, the values of the Sangh and his patriotism guided him throughout his life," Shah said.

He described it as the beginning of a new chapter in the land associated with Swami Vivekananda and Syama Prasad Mookerjee.

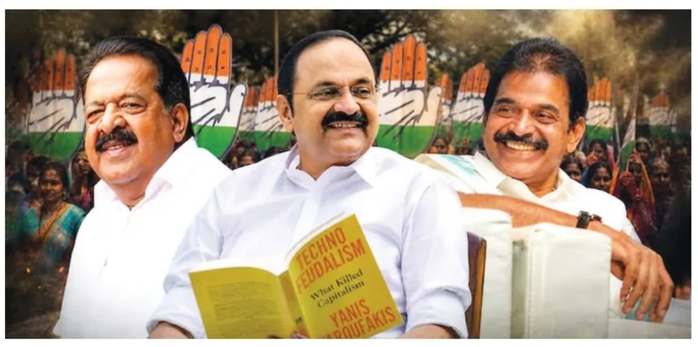
Battle for CM post goes on

NEW DELHI



Amid intense lobbying for the chief minister post of Keralam, the Congress on Saturday could not annouce its choice for CM even after a nearly three-hour meeting top leaders Mallikarjun Kharge and Rahul Gandhi had with the contenders. Later, the party made it clear that a "final decision" will be taken in "due course".

The delay in announcement meant that the contenders -- KC Venugopal, VD Satheesan and Ramesh Chennithala -- were unwilling to dilute their claims for the top post in the state, where their supporters had held processions and erected banners, even as the leadership listened to the competing claims.

Congress' Kerala in-charge Deepa Dasmunsi said the decision will be announced in "due course…(which) is May 23 (the day Assembly will be dissolved)" after it is finalised by party chief Mallikarjun Kharge and Leader of Opposition in Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi.

The party high command is in a bind as Venugopal has the support of a majority of MLAs while there was an outpouring of support for Satheesan from party workers and the public along with allies like Muslim League. Chennithala is the senior-most and the most experienced among the contenders.

The run up to the meeting saw intense lobbying by all the three leaders. There were reports that the Muslim League conveyed to the Congress leadership that they prefer Satheesan as their preference while the latter had Venugopal's name in mind.

KEY CONTENDERS

'FREE TRAVEL' POLL PLEDGE

KSRTC rolls out gender ticketing

The move aims to track female ridership, signaling a potential move toward free travel for women in Kerala

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

The Kerala State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) on Saturday introduced a new system known as 'Gender Ticketing' gender ticketing.

The facility to record the gender of the passenger as male or female while issuing tickets via Electronic Ticketing Machines (ETM).

This move is linked to the newly-elected UDF government's election promise that if the party comes to power, free travel for women would be ensured through the 'Indira Guarantee' scheme.

The updated ETMs now include separate options for women, men and children, and the printed tickets will also show the category of the passenger. The IT Department will provide urgent training to conductors to familiarise them with these technical changes.

According to a KSRTC circular, the gender ticketing system is intended to record whether a passenger is a woman, a man or a child in tickets issued on KSRTC buses from Saturday.

KSRTC MD Dr PS Pramoj Shankar said Unit Officers at each depot would supervise the implementation.

What's the motive?

The move is being seen as an attempt to estimate the number of women using KSRTC services daily before the implementation of the UDF's poll promise of free bus travel for women across Kerala.

The UDF recently won 102 out of 140 Assembly seats and is expected to form the government once the Congress finalises its chief ministerial candidate.

Officials have stated that the ETM software across the KSRTC depots was updated to support the new system from Saturday onward.

Conductors worried

Some conductors have reportedly expressed concern that entering passenger categories while issuing tickets could lead to delays, especially during peak travel hours and crowded trips. The new process requires conductors to manually select the passenger category while issuing tickets.

Leadership issue will be resolved within a month: Muniyappa

The minister says the matter is under the consideration of the party leadership and clarity will emerge soon

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Responding to questions from journalists regarding speculation surrounding a cabinet reshuffle and change in leadership, Muniyappa said the matter is under the consideration of the party leadership and clarity would emerge soon.

He stated that the Congress high command would take an appropriate decision after assessing the political situation and consulting party leaders.

Everything will be decided by the high command. The issue will be resolved within a month. Whether the current leadership continues or changes, the party leadership itself will announce it, he said while addressing the media.

Muniyappa also commented on the recent meeting convened by the Chief Minister regarding the Special Intensive Revision of electoral rolls. Referring to concerns surrounding the revision process, he said there is confusion and debate across the country regarding voter list management and possible misuse.

He stated that discussions were held with various organizations during the meeting to examine issues related to misuse and preventive measures. According to him, arbitrary deletion of names from voter lists could create suspicion and mistrust among the public across the nation.

The minister clarified that he was not opposed to revision of electoral rolls but stressed that the process must be carried out transparently and responsibly. He alleged that in some cases, names of eligible voters were being removed while unwanted entries were being retained, raising concerns over fairness in the system.

Muniyappa urged political parties and election authorities to handle voter list revisions with responsibility and ensure that genuine voters are not deprived of their democratic rights. He said maintaining the credibility of the electoral process is essential for preserving public trust in democracy.

The minister also reacted to the political developments in Tamil Nadu regarding government formation. He stated that an opportunity should be given to parties claiming majority support to form the government and later prove their majority on the floor of the House.

He emphasized that governors should act in accordance with constitutional principles and provide adequate time for parties to demonstrate majority support. According to him, denying such an opportunity could be viewed as disrespecting both constitutional values and the mandate given by the people.

1 killed, 4 hurt in fire at Bengaluru hotel

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A major fire accident occurred at a private hotel in Bengaluru's Nagarabhavi area, leaving one person dead and four others seriously injured.

The fire reportedly spread rapidly through the building, trapping hotel staff members and causing panic in the locality.

According to police and fire department officials, the incident took place at a private hotel located on the service road near the Outer Ring Road in Nagarabhavi. The fire reportedly broke out suddenly during the late-night hours, prompting immediate emergency response operations.

Authorities suspect that the blaze may have been caused by a short circuit, although the exact reason behind the fire is still under investigation. Fire and emergency service personnel rushed to the spot soon after receiving information and launched efforts to control the flames and rescue those trapped inside the building.

Officials stated that the fire initially started in the hotel premises and later spread to the upper floor of the building where several hotel employees were residing. At the time of the incident, eight staff members were reportedly present in the building.

Dense smoke quickly filled the structure, making rescue operations difficult and causing severe breathing problems for those inside. During the incident, five workers identified as Bhima, Shivanand, Satish, and Rajkumar, along with another staff member, reportedly became unconscious after inhaling smoke.

Rescue teams managed to evacuate the affected individuals and shift them to a nearby hospital for treatment. However, 45-year-old Rajkumar succumbed to his injuries while undergoing treatment at the hospital. Police confirmed that the remaining four injured persons are currently receiving treatment at a private hospital and their condition is being monitored.

The incident created panic among residents and commuters in the surrounding area as thick smoke engulfed the hotel building during the night. Local residents gathered near the spot while emergency teams worked for several hours to completely extinguish the fire.

Police officials have registered a case and initiated an investigation into the incident. Fire department personnel are examining the electrical systems and other possible causes to determine the exact source of the fire.

The tragedy has once again raised concerns regarding fire safety measures in commercial establishments and staff accommodations operating within city limits. Authorities are expected to inspect whether the hotel had complied with mandatory fire safety regulations and emergency preparedness guidelines.

Bengaluru tops country in dowry death, harassment cases: NCRB

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

According to the latest NCRB data, Bengaluru ranked first among 19 major Indian cities in cases related to dowry deaths.

The report stated that the city registered a total of 87 dowry death cases during the previous year, surpassing other large metropolitan cities such as Delhi and Mumbai.

Delhi stood in second place with 41 reported dowry death cases, while Kanpur recorded 32 cases and Lucknow reported 27. The statistics have shocked social activists, legal experts, and citizens, especially considering Bengaluru's reputation as a progressive and educated city.

The NCRB report further highlighted that Bengaluru is also witnessing a rise in cases registered under Section 498A of the Indian Penal Code, which deals with cruelty by husbands or their relatives against married women.

Experts noted that the growing number of complaints indicates that domestic violence and dowry harassment continue to remain deeply rooted social problems despite increasing awareness and legal safeguards.

Social activists and legal professionals pointed out several factors contributing to the rise in such cases. One major reason, according to experts, is greater legal awareness among women in Bengaluru. Many women are now more willing to report harassment and seek legal protection when subjected to abuse or dowry-related pressure.

At the same time, experts warned that increasing materialism, financial greed, and social pressure associated with luxury lifestyles continue to fuel dowry demands.

Families are allegedly placing emotional and financial pressure on women even after marriage, demanding additional money, property, or valuables.

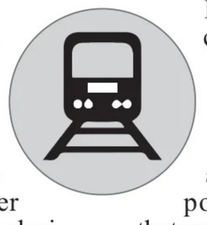
Metro services between Hosahalli and Cubbon Park stations on Purple Line were temporarily suspended for technical work.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Metro trains on all routes in Bengaluru will now operate as usual from 5 am on Sunday, ensuring uninterrupted travel for passengers across the city.

Earlier on May 8, BMRCL had issued a notification stating that metro services between Hosahalli Station, officially known as Sri Balagangadharanatha Swamiji Station, and Cubbon Park Station on the Purple Line would be temporarily suspended on May 10 due to technical work. The announcement had caused concern among regular commuters who depend heavily on metro services during weekends.



However, the corporation has now officially withdrawn the earlier order, confirming that the planned service disruption will no longer take place. Officials clarified that the previous notification related to technical maintenance is no longer applicable and that metro operations will continue normally.

According to BMRCL authorities, the decision was taken in view of several important events and public gatherings scheduled to take place in Bengaluru on Sunday. The announcement has been welcomed by daily commuters and residents, many of whom rely on metro services for faster and more reliable transportation across Bengaluru. With growing traffic congestion in the city, the metro network continues to play a crucial role in urban mobility and public transportation management.

Officials also assured passengers that all operational and safety measures would continue to be followed while maintaining regular services across the metro network.

Police disperse unauthorized protest near Gandhi statue

DHARWAD

According to police officials, Kantha Kumar and a group of supporters gathered near the Gandhi statue situated opposite the Dharwad District Collector's Office during the afternoon hours. The demonstrators raised slogans against the authorities and demanded immediate action on issues concerning students and youth welfare. The protest reportedly caused temporary disruption in the area as traffic movement slowed and security personnel were deployed in large numbers to maintain law and order.

Eyewitnesses said the protesters attempted to intensify their agitation by refusing to disperse even after repeated warnings from the police. Authorities claimed that the gathering did not have proper permission and that the protest violated public safety regulations. After several rounds of discussions failed to resolve the situation, police detained Kantha Kumar along with a few supporters and later formally arrested him.

The arrest triggered strong reactions from members of student organizations and opposition groups, who accused the administration of suppressing democratic protests. Several students gathered outside the police station demanding his immediate release and criticized the authorities for taking strict action against peaceful demonstrators.

Police officials defended their action, stating that the protest had the potential to disturb public order in a sensitive government zone. Senior officers said adequate opportunities were given to the protesters to present their grievances peacefully, but they allegedly ignored instructions issued by law enforcement personnel.

Meanwhile, supporters of Kantha Kumar stated that the protest was intended to draw the government's attention toward unresolved student concerns, including educational infrastructure, scholarships, and employment opportunities for youth. Dharwad protest gains backing from farmer leaders

The protest witnessed participation from several activists, students, and members of various organizations demanding greater employment opportunities and transparent recruitment processes.

Farmer leader Nagappa Hundi said that unemployed youth across Karnataka have been facing immense difficulties due to delays in government recruitment and a lack of adequate job opportunities. He stated that the concerns raised by job seekers were genuine and deserved immediate attention from the authorities.

Hundi emphasized that unemployment has become one of the most pressing challenges affecting families in both rural and urban areas. He noted that many educated young people have been preparing for competitive examinations for several years but continue to struggle because recruitment notifications are either delayed or cancelled. According to him, this situation has created frustration among thousands of aspirants across the state.

The Karnataka Farmers' Association, while traditionally focused on agricultural issues and farmers' welfare, decided to support the movement as unemployment directly affects farming families as well. Hundi explained that many farmers invest heavily in the education of their children with hopes of securing stable employment, but the lack of jobs has increased financial and emotional pressure on households.

During the gathering, protesters raised slogans demanding immediate filling of vacant government posts, fair recruitment procedures, and timely completion of examinations and interviews. Several participants also urged the state government to create more employment opportunities for educated youth and improve transparency in the hiring process.

Nagappa Hundi warned that if the concerns of job aspirants continue to be ignored, larger demonstrations could take place in different districts of Karnataka in the coming weeks. He called upon the government to initiate direct discussions with representatives of unemployed youth and resolve their issues without delay.

The protest remained peaceful under police supervision, although security arrangements were tightened in parts of Dharwad city to avoid any untoward incidents. The demonstration has drawn attention from social organizations and political groups, many of which have begun voicing support for the demands raised by unemployed youth across the state.

The organisations demanded fair pricing policies, timely harvesting, and protection of farmers from financial losses caused by delays and deductions imposed by sugar factories.

Farmer representatives stated that the current pricing structure for sugarcane does not adequately reflect the profits earned by sugar mills and related industries. In the memorandum submitted to Union Minister Pralhad Joshi, the associations demanded that the Fair and Remunerative Price (FRP) of sugarcane should be determined by considering the profitability of products derived from sugarcane, including charcoal, electricity generated from molasses, alcohol, ethanol, and bio-compost fertilizers.

According to the farmer leaders, sugar factories and allied industries earn significant revenue from by-products of sugarcane, but farmers do not receive a proportionate share of the profits. They argued that sugarcane growers continue to face rising cultivation costs, labour expenses, and transportation charges while the returns remain inadequate.

The associations also demanded that the recovery rate of sugar from sugarcane should be fixed at a minimum of nine percent. They insisted that the FRP must be fixed based on the price of sugarcane at the farmer's field itself, while the responsibility for harvesting and transportation should rest with the sugar factories. Farmer representatives said growers are often burdened with additional transportation and harvesting expenses, reducing their overall earnings.

Another major concern raised in the memorandum was the deduction of up to 25 percent from the FRP in cases where sugarcane is affected by accidental fires or electrical short circuits before reaching factories. The organisations urged the government to direct sugar mills to stop such deductions, arguing that farmers should not be punished for circumstances beyond their control.

The memorandum further highlighted delays in harvesting sugarcane crops. Farmers stated that although sugarcane should ideally be harvested within 12 months, many factories delay the process for up to 14 or 15 months. Such delays, they said, result in additional financial burdens on farmers, including higher loan interest. The organisations demanded that sugar factories should bear the responsibility of paying the extra interest on crop loans caused by delayed harvesting.

Farmer leaders expressed hope that the Central Government would take immediate action on their demands and introduce reforms to safeguard the interests of sugarcane growers across the state.

Youth urge Karnataka govt recruitment action

DHARWAD

AXA leader Kanthakumar has announced that the agitation demanding the filling of vacant government posts in Karnataka will continue until the state government takes concrete action.

He stated that an indefinite dharna would be staged in front of the Dharwad Deputy Commissioner's office on behalf of unemployed job seekers seeking immediate recruitment notifications and appointments.

Addressing reporters and supporters in Dharwad, Kanthakumar said that unemployed youth across the state have been facing uncertainty due to delays in the recruitment process for vacant government positions. He emphasized that several rounds of protests and demonstrations had already taken place in Dharwad, but the government had yet to provide a satisfactory response to the concerns raised by job aspirants.

According to him, the state government's decision to conduct GBA elections could further delay the recruitment process because the implementation of the election code of conduct would restrict new appointments and official announcements. He warned that if recruitment notifications are not issued before the enforcement of the code of conduct, thousands of candidates preparing for government jobs would continue to suffer.

Kanthakumar urged the government to immediately issue notifications for pending appointments and accelerate the recruitment process before election-related restrictions come into effect. He stated that unemployed youth have already spent several years preparing for competitive examinations and waiting for opportunities, and continued delays are increasing frustration among aspirants.

The AXA leader declared that he would personally continue an indefinite dharna in front of the Dharwad DC office on behalf of all job seekers until the government addresses their demands. He said the protest was intended to draw the attention of the administration toward the growing unemployment crisis and the hardships faced by educated youth.

During his address, Kanthakumar also criticized the government for giving greater importance to election preparations while recruitment issues remain unresolved. He argued that employment generation and timely recruitment should receive the same level of urgency and administrative attention as elections.

Several job aspirants and supporters participated in the gathering and expressed solidarity with the protest. Demonstrators demanded transparency in recruitment procedures, timely examination schedules, and immediate filling of vacant posts in various government departments.

The protest has attracted attention from student groups, social organizations, and local activists, many of whom have extended support to the movement. Organizers indicated that further demonstrations could be planned in other districts if the government fails to respond promptly to their demands.

Political greed costs Bengaluru the IPL final

Political demands for excessive free VIP tickets forced the BCCI to move the 2026 IPL final to Ahmedabad.

HUNSURU

In a move that has shocked local cricket fans, the BCCI has officially shifted the IPL 2026 final from Bengaluru to Ahmedabad. The decision follows a heated controversy involving Karnataka's elected representatives and their demands for a massive quota of free tickets. Satyappa, president of the Sathya MAS Foundation, has labeled the situation a "national shame," accusing politicians of prioritizing "VIP culture" over the public interest. The trouble began when legislators, including 224 MLAs and 70 MLCs, allegedly lobbied for high-value complimentary passes. While BCCI protocols limit free ticket distribution to just 15% of stadium capacity, reports suggest state representatives demanded far more, with some requesting up to five VIP tickets each. Satyappa noted that with VIP tickets valued at nearly 25,000 each, the total demand represented a staggering waste of over 4 crore. BCCI Secretary Devajit Saikia confirmed the venue change, stating that excess demand for complimentary tickets beyond mandated quotas forced the board's hand. Because defending champions Royal Challengers Bengaluru were set to host the final, the shift to Narendra Modi Stadium is a major blow to the city's prestige and economy. Critics argue that the state government should have used its influence to honor achievers and talented students instead of fighting for free seats. "If these representatives knew even a little about the struggles of farmers and the public, they would discuss those issues in the assembly rather than lobbying for cricket tickets," Satyappa said. The fallout has left the government facing sharp criticism for letting political greed derail a major sporting celebration.

RAMANAGARA

Retired Justice Nagamohan Das called for a society built on justice and coexistence during the unveiling of a new Basavanna statue at the City Council premises. Speaking at the Basava Jayanti event, the Justice emphasized that true progress is only possible if citizens move beyond "caste politics" and embrace the shared principles of Lord Basavanna and Dr. B.R. Ambedkar.Justice Das noted that while many politicians use the images of great thinkers for gain, these philosophers actually belong to all of humanity. He reminded the audience that in the 12th century, Basavanna and the Vachanakaras fought against hereditary professions and untouchability. These same values of equality are now the backbone of the Indian Constitution."The Vachanakaras give us a moral path, while the Constitution provides a legal one," Justice Das stated. He expressed regret that many people either haven't read these important texts or fail to practice their teachings in daily life. He described the historic Anubhav Mantapa as an early center of democracy that mirrors our modern parliamentary system.Municipal President K. Seshadri Sashi highlighted that the council had officially budgeted for this celebration to honor the "pioneer of social justice." LOCAL RESIDENTS FEAR FLOODING AS ROADS CRUMBLE

MANIPAL

Families living near the Aatradi-Hirebettu road are bracing for a difficult monsoon as their main transit route falls into total disrepair. What used to be a smooth path is now a source of daily stress for commuters and neighbors.

The primary concern is the drainage system. Currently, the gutters are choked with plastic bottles, household trash, and thick silt. Residents admit that illegal dumping has turned these drains into stagnant pools that smell terrible. With heavy rains expected soon, there is a very real fear that water will have nowhere to go but inside people's homes and across the driving

The mess isn't just underfoot. Overgrown bushes and wild plants are swallowing the roadsides toward Tattur and Kabyadi. Locals report a heartbreaking sight, stray animals dragging discarded waste across the pavement. This creates a massive health risk for children walking to school and elderly residents living nearby.

Even though this road is a vital link to the Mangaluru International Airport, it is covered in dangerous potholes. Near Hirebettu Junction, loose gravel makes the surface feel like marbles under motorcycle tires, causing frequent skids. Public spaces aren't faring any better; the Tattur bus shelter is currently hidden behind a wall of weeds, making it unusable for passengers seeking shade.

Tired of waiting, the community is now making a final plea to local officials. They want the drains cleared and the asphalt patched immediately, before the first rains turn these small problems into a disaster.

Ancient Basrur lakes crumble under heavy neglect

BASRUR

The historic town of Basrur, once a shimmering jewel of the Vijayanagara Empire, is watching its legacy dry up. Known historically as "Vasupura," this former port town once traded with Rome and China. However, the famous "seven lakes" that define its heritage are fighting a losing battle against time and total administrative apathy. Basrur's identity is tied to seven specific water bodies, including Devara Kere and Halavara Kere. Built centuries ago with sturdy red stone slabs and elegant steps, these lakes were designed for both irrigation and daily life. Fast forward to the present, and the scene is grim. Most of these structures are in ruins. Only three lakes still hold any water, but even those are choked by thick green algae and stagnant filth, making them completely unusable for the local residents.Community members recall past attempts to remove silt, but without a long-term plan, the weeds simply returned. The sight of these crumbling monuments is a painful reminder of a glorious past being forgotten. However, a small glimmer of hope has finally emerged for the thirsty town.

Struggling Karkala residents demand better parking solutions

KARKALA

Karkala is famous for its rich history and beautiful landmarks, but for the people living there, the daily reality is a nightmare of gridlock. As the town grows, its infrastructure remains stuck in the past, leaving drivers and walkers frustrated by constant congestion and a total lack of parking.

For over ten years, officials have debated how to fix the parking crisis, yet little has changed. Without official lots, cars and bikes line both sides of the narrow streets. This creates a bottleneck at SBI Junction and Venkatramana Temple Road, where traffic often grinds to a complete halt. The situation has become so dire that even emergency ambulances find themselves trapped in long queues during the busiest hours of the day.

The chaos on the road has spilled onto the sidewalks. Pedestrians are being forced to walk into the flow of traffic because footpaths are packed with parked vehicles. Adding to the town's worries, residents have reported a rise in public disturbances. Groups of intoxicated individuals often loiter near the bus stands, making students and women feel unsafe while they wait for transportation.

With the major Bahubali Mahamastakabhisheka festival approaching, the town expects a massive wave of tourists. Local families are now calling for an urgent meeting with leaders to find a real fix. They aren't asking for miracles, just clear roads, safe walking paths, and a dedicated place to park their cars so that Karkala can finally breathe again.

Hunsur's polluted river sparks cleanliness report row

HUNSUR

A major controversy has erupted as the State Cleanliness Monitoring Team begins its inspection of Hunsur. Local activists, led by Satyappa of the Sathya MAS Foundation, allege that authorities are misleading the visiting team to secure an undeserved cleanliness award.

While the monitoring team is currently camping in the city to prepare its report, critics claim they are being "lured" by local officials to visit only pre-cleaned pockets. The protesters warn that ignoring the city's massive drainage issues will lead to a false report being submitted to the government.

The central point of contention is the historic Lakshmana Teertha River. Originating in South Kodagu and flowing 180 kilometers before joining the Kaveri, this river is considered the lifeblood of the region. Legend says the river was created by Lakshmana's arrow during the Ramayana. However, its spiritual significance contrasts sharply with its current state.

Recent data from the Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB) paints a grim picture, ranking the Lakshmana Teertha as the second most polluted river in the state. Reports submitted to the National Green Tribunal (NGT) highlight a high Biochemical Oxygen Demand (BOD) level of 5.6, a clear indicator of severe organic pollution.

Satyappa pointed out that sewage from over 100,000 residents flows directly into the river. "This polluted water eventually reaches Mysore, Mandya, and even Bengaluru," he stated. "Over two crore people, including state MLAs and ministers, consume this water downstream, often falling ill without knowing its rotten condition."

Despite Hunsur winning "Best Municipal Council" awards multiple times in the past, the river remains a "royal canal" for waste. Activists argue these awards are based on flawed criteria that ignore the stinking reality of the city's waterways.

The Sathya MAS Foundation has now threatened to escalate the matter. If the state team fails to document the true state of the river, residents plan to take their complaints directly to the Prime Minister and Union Tourism Minister, demanding accountability for the neglected "karmic land" of late leader D. Devaraja Urs.

Kejriwal compares Modi to Aurangzeb

The AAP leader said Modi has wrongly taken control over many parts of India and has now reached Punjab

NEW DELHI

Aam Aadmi Party leader Arvind Kejriwal on Saturday compared Prime Minister Narendra Modi to Mughal ruler Aurangzeb during a press conference in New Delhi.

He made strong remarks while responding to recent Enforcement Directorate action in Punjab.

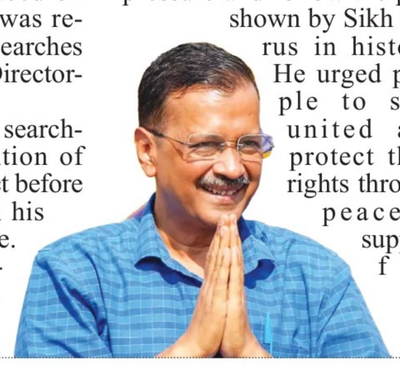
He said Modi has wrongly taken control over many parts of India and has now reached Punjab. Kejriwal said Punjab is the land of Gurus and added that history shows Aurangzeb once used force and control, similar to what he alleged is happening today in politics.

He made these comments after ED action against Punjab minister Sanjeev Arora. Kejriwal said Punjab is being targeted through repeated raids and pressure on leaders. He also said the central government is misusing agencies against opposition leaders.

He referred to the farm law protests and said farmers forced the government to withdraw the laws earlier. He added that after elections in other states, raids in Punjab have increased, creating fear among leaders and citizens.

Kejriwal also mentioned former AAP Rajya Sabha member Ashok Mittal, saying he faced a raid and later joined the Bharatiya Janata Party. He claimed this shows political pressure behind such actions. He added that similar pressure is being placed on Sanjeev Arora, who was recently arrested after searches by the Enforcement Directorate.

The ED carried out searches under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act before arresting Arora from his Chandigarh residence. Kejriwal said such actions aim to weaken opposition leaders and force political changes.



He said Punjab will resist pressure and follow the path shown by Sikh Gurus in history. He urged people to stay united and protect their rights through peaceful support for elected leaders.

Shiromani Akali Dal leader Bikram Singh Majithia said Arora was arrested in a GST-related fraud case. However, there has been no official statement from the Enforcement Directorate so far.

The issue has triggered strong political debate in Punjab and other regions. Supporters of AAP called the action unfair, while others defended the role of investigating agencies.

Her remarks came after Suvendu Adhikari took oath as chief minister of first BJP led government in West Bengal along with other ministers. The cabinet also included Dilip Ghosh, Nisith Pramanik, Ashok Kirtania and Khudiram Tudu among others. Speaking to reporters, Paul recalled struggles of BJP workers and alleged years of violence, harassment and cases during previous rule. She said workers faced attacks and claimed the situation had changed after the new government came to power. Paul also said Syama Prasad Mookerjee's ideals guided the party's rise in Bengal politics. She alleged Mamata Banerjee's government pursued appeasement politics and claimed cultural identity was at risk. She said victims of past political violence deserve justice and peace under the new administration. TN awaits clarity on new government

The formation of the new government in Tamil Nadu remains uncertain as political discussions and alliances continue after the recent Assembly elections. AIADMK general secretary Edappadi K. Palaniswami extended congratulations to all winning candidates and parties in the 17th Tamil Nadu Legislative Assembly election while wishing success to whichever party forms the next government.

The state election was held on April 23 across all 234 constituencies in a single phase and saw a closely fought four corner contest involving the DMK alliance, AIADMK alliance, Naam Tamilar Katchi, and actor Vijay led Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam.

TVK has emerged as the single largest party with 108 seats, but it is still working to secure a majority in the House.

CBI extradites Haryana fugitive from Portugal

NEW DELHI

The Central Bureau of Investigation has coordinated the extradition of wanted fugitive Abhay alias Abhay Rana from Portugal to India. It worked with the Ministry of External Affairs and Ministry of Home Affairs along with INTERPOL and Haryana Police in the operation.

The fugitive was wanted in serious criminal cases including extortion, threats, attempt to murder, and running an organised crime network. Investigators said he and his associates allegedly targeted businessmen in Haryana through social media and demanded ransom money.

Victims who refused payment were reportedly assaulted by members of the syndicate, according to police findings. Following investigation, charges were filed and a court issued proceedings against the accused in India.

After a request from Haryana Police, INTERPOL issued a Red Notice leading to his arrest in Portugal. Portuguese authorities approved extradition after legal procedures and handed him over to Indian officials. He was brought to New Delhi by a police escort team on Saturday and taken into custody.

Officials said over 160 fugitives have been brought back to India in recent years through coordinated international efforts. The agency continues to use INTERPOL channels and the BHARATPOL platform to strengthen global police cooperation. Authorities said the case highlights growing international cooperation in tracking and returning dangerous fugitives to ensure justice and improve cross-border law enforcement coordination between partner nations globally.

ED ARRESTS PUNJAB MINISTER AFTER MULTI-CITY RAIDS

CHANDIGARH

The Enforcement Directorate on Saturday arrested Punjab Industry Minister Sanjeev Arora after conducting raids at multiple locations linked to him in Chandigarh and other regions.

The action followed extensive searches carried out under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act as part of an ongoing investigation. Officials have not yet issued an official statement confirming details of the arrest.

According to reports, ED teams searched at least four premises connected to Arora, including his official residence in Chandigarh. This marks the third such raid in about a year, with earlier searches conducted in April and previous months in connection with similar allegations.Shiromani Akali Dal leader Bikram Singh Majithia claimed that the arrest is linked to alleged GST fraud and financial irregularities involving a mobile phone purchase and export network. He also alleged connections to money laundering and fund movement through foreign channels.

Meanwhile, Punjab Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann accused the central government of misusing investigative agencies for political purposes. He said repeated raids on Arora's residence show a pattern of pressure tactics and defended his minister, stating that no wrongdoing has been proven.

Aam Aadmi Party leader Arvind Kejriwal also criticised the action, alleging that central agencies are being used to target opposition leaders and weaken political rivals rather than focusing on corruption cases.The ED had earlier investigated Arora in connection with alleged land conversion and financial irregularities when he was a Member of Parliament. The current case reportedly involves wider scrutiny of business transactions and associated firms.

Opposition leaders have demanded transparency in the investigation, while ruling party representatives say the law must be applied equally to all individuals involved. The case has triggered a fresh political clash in Punjab.

Officials said the commissioning of Achal strengthens coastal security and improves readiness of the Indian Coast Guard. It marks another step in India's effort to build modern indigenous defence capability under national initiatives like Make in India and Atmanirbhar Bharat, while also enhancing safety at sea for fishermen, trade vessels and maritime traffic across the region, officials added, highlighting the ship's role in long term maritime protection and rapid response during emergencies at sea across Indian maritime zones coastline and waters.

South Korea, US discuss defence control shift

WASHINGTON

South Korean Defence Minister Ahn Gyu-back will visit the United States next week for talks with US Defence Secretary Pete Hegseth. The five-day trip marks his first visit as minister. Key discussions include transfer of wartime operational control and South Korea's push for nuclear-powered submarines with US support. Seoul aims for OPCON return by 2028, while US signals later timing. Talks will also cover maritime security in the Strait of Hormuz, intelligence-sharing concerns on North Korea, and broader defence cooperation between the allies during ongoing regional tensions. Officials will meet lawmakers and navy leaders in Washington DC.

US strike on drug boat leaves two dead

WASHINGTON

The US military said its Southern Command sank a suspected drug-trafficking boat in the eastern Pacific Ocean, killing two men and leaving one survivor. Officials said the vessel was moving along known drug routes and linked to organised crime groups. No US personnel were harmed in the operation. The command claimed intelligence confirmed illegal activity, though no evidence was shared publicly. Since September, more than 50 similar strikes have been carried out, resulting in hundreds of deaths.

Japanese PM Takaichi eyes South Korea visit

Takaichi will discuss bilateral co-op with Korea on energy security amid crude oil transportation disruption due to war.

TOKYO

Japanese Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi is considering a visit to South Korea later this month for a summit with President Lee Jae Myung.

The meeting is expected to take place in Andong, the president's hometown, about 190 kilometres from Seoul. Reports say the two-day trip may happen on May 19 and will focus on economic security, energy, and critical mineral supply chains.

Both countries continue regular exchanges to improve relations and strengthen cooperation on regional security issues. Meanwhile, South Korea has said it is not considering a military logistics agreement with Japan despite reports of Japanese interest. Japan has been seeking an acquisition and cross-servicing agreement with South Korea to improve defense coordination with the United States. The agreement would allow sharing of supplies and services during emergencies and strengthen deterrence against North Korea and China. However, Seoul has expressed caution, saying it does not want any arrangement that could expand Japanese Self-Defence Forces operations on the Korean Peninsula.

Officials say both governments will continue dialogue on security and economic cooperation while maintaining careful steps to avoid rising regional tensions in Northeast Asia amid ongoing geopolitical concerns in the region and beyond.

Ukraine peace remains very distant: Kremlin

MOSCOW

The Kremlin said on Saturday that peace in Ukraine is still far away and a full agreement is difficult because many issues remain complex.

Officials said the United States is trying to move quickly toward a deal, but progress remains slow. Russia and Ukraine confirmed a US brokered three day ceasefire that runs from May 9 to May 11.

The United States president Donald Trump said he hopes the ceasefire can be extended beyond the initial period.

A Kremlin spokesman said the American side is in a hurry, but a settlement remains very complex and long. The conflict has continued for more than four years and remains one of the most serious wars in Europe.

Analysts say both sides still face major disagreements and a lasting peace deal appears far from close. Officials also said monitoring the ceasefire will be difficult on the ground due to ongoing fighting and distrust between both militaries. The United States has been trying to mediate talks, but officials admit that a broader settlement will require time and political compromise. Russian officials compared the current conflict duration to past major wars, saying it has already lasted longer than expected.

Despite diplomatic efforts, both Moscow and Washington acknowledge that final peace terms remain undecided and highly sensitive.

Pak security forces kill five terrorists

PESHAWAR

Pakistan security forces killed five terrorists in separate operations in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa province, the army said on Saturday.

The actions were carried out in Tank and Dera Ismail Khan districts after intelligence reports on May 7 and 8. Four members of the banned Tehreek-e-Taliban Pakistan were killed in Tank during an exchange of fire.

In Dera Ismail Khan, one more militant was killed and weapons and ammunition were recovered from them. Security officials said violence has increased in the region since the TTP ended its ceasefire in 2022.

Authorities said intelligence-based raids are continuing across the province to eliminate militant hideouts and improve security for residents. Officials added that security forces remain alert and are working with local intelligence networks to prevent further attacks,

Prosecutors said the crime was planned for money and rejected claims that it was a failed robbery. Arnold De Jong, 77, and Joanne De Jong, 76, were found dead in their home in 2022.

Senior monk accused of abusing minor girl

COLOMBO

Police in Sri Lanka have arrested one of the country's senior Buddhist monks over allegations of sexual abuse involving a minor girl, officials said on Saturday.

The suspect is Venerable Pallegama Hemarathana, 71, the chief priest of a well-known temple linked to the Atamasthana sacred sites in Anuradhapura. According to police, the victim is now 15 years old and the alleged abuse took place within temple premises. Authorities said the arrest followed a magistrate court warrant issued against the monk and the victim's mother, who is also accused of helping in the case. The investigation began after a complaint was filed in March, initially relating to abduction and illegal detention of a minor. However, further inquiry revealed more serious allegations of sexual abuse. Police said the monk was taken into custody from a private hospital in Colombo, about 200 kilometres from Anuradhapura, where he was receiving treatment. The victim's mother has also been arrested in connection with the case.

They also talked about future military plans and possible training exchanges between their armed forces.

Russia praised North Korea's invitation to a memorial event and said bilateral relations are at a high level. Both nations say they will continue strengthening ties in the coming years despite global tensions and sanctions pressure.

Officials said the partnership is expected to expand further in areas such as trade, security, and infrastructure cooperation over the next few years as both countries continue closer diplomatic engagement amid ongoing geopolitical uncertainty in Northeast Asia and the wider international landscape.

Airlines receive lifeline amid Mideast tensions

NEW DELHI

The PHD Chamber of Commerce and Industry has welcomed the Central government's decision to launch a Rs 5,000 crore emergency credit support scheme for airlines facing financial pressure due to the ongoing West Asia crisis.PHDCCI president Rajeev Juneja said the quick move showed the government's strong commitment towards protecting India's aviation sector, which plays a major role in tourism, trade and business travel.

He added that helping airlines during this difficult period would also support hotels, travel companies and jobs linked to the tourism industry.

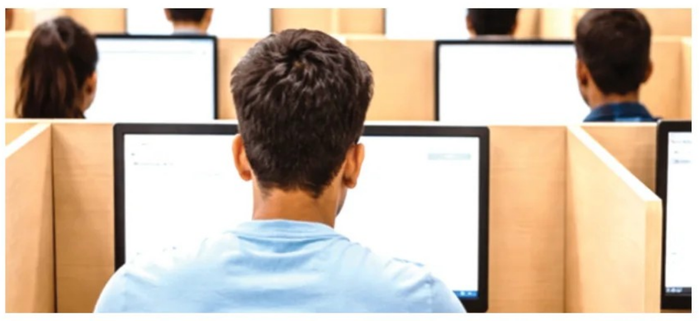
The business body said the decision matched several suggestions made in its recent report on the impact of the West Asia conflict on India's tourism and aviation sectors. The report warned that rising operating costs and fewer available seats could reduce tourist arrivals from Europe and North America, where passengers are highly sensitive to airfare prices and longer travel times.Anil Parashar, Chair of PHDCCI's Tourism and Hospitality Committee, said airlines and tourism businesses needed strong financial support during periods of global uncertainty. He stressed that stable funding and policy assistance were necessary for maintaining confidence in the travel sector.

PHDCCI also urged the government to continue reforms such as reducing aviation fuel taxes, improving e-visa facilities and providing easier financial support for tourism MSMEs.

Dr. Ranjeet Mehta, CEO and Secretary General of PHDCCI, said the present geopolitical tensions had highlighted the close connection between aviation and tourism growth in India. He said timely financial help would allow airlines to continue operations smoothly, maintain passenger confidence and reduce disruptions across the wider travel.

India fully activates four labour codes system

NEW DELHI



The Centre has fully implemented the four labour codes after notifying all related rules in the official gazette.

This marks the completion of major labour reforms that were introduced more than five years ago to simplify India's labour laws.

The four codes include wage, industrial relations, social security and workplace safety laws designed to replace 29 older regulations. Officials said some parts were delayed earlier because rules had not been notified for full enforcement. Labour Minister Dr Mansukh Mandaviya recently launched a nationwide annual health check-up programme for workers aged above forty. Under this initiative, workers across the country will receive free yearly medical examinations to improve workplace health and safety.The minister said the reforms reflect the government's aim to ensure dignity, welfare and social security for employees. He also highlighted equal pay provisions for men and women along with extended maternity leave increased to twenty six weeks. Work from home options for women workers have also been included in the new legal framework.

A National Reskilling Fund has been created to support workers who lose jobs and need new training opportunities. The government said these changes will help strengthen India's labour system and improve long-term job security. Authorities added that full enforcement of the codes will also improve ease of doing business and worker protection.

Officials believe the new labour framework will modernise employment rules, reduce complexity, and ensure better coordination between employers, workers, and the government across all sectors in India going forward supporting inclusive growth and stable employment conditions nationwide.

Between 2014 and 2025, nearly 2,996 climate-resilient crop varieties were developed to support farmers against weather changes.

The government said these efforts aim to reduce risks from climate change and ensure stable food production for the country.

The mission was later included under broader agriculture programmes to improve coordination and efficiency in implementation. Spinners struggle as Delhi Capitals lose big

NEW DELHI

The Delhi Capitals suffered a crushing eight-wicket defeat against the Kolkata Knight Riders in their last match. Following the loss at Arun Jaitley Stadium, captain Axar Patel pointed the finger at his bowling unit. He admitted the team's spinners made too many mistakes on a pitch that should have helped them.

Delhi batted first but struggled to find their rhythm, posting a modest total of 142 runs. While Pathum Nissanka scored a brave half-century, the team lost five wickets in a sudden collapse. This middle-order slump shifted the momentum entirely toward Kolkata. Axar noted that losing so many players in just a few overs left them with a score well below par.

The defense started poorly as Delhi's spinners conceded 102 runs in just nine overs. Kuldeep Yadav and Vipraj Nigam were particularly expensive, failing to take any wickets. Meanwhile, Kolkata opener Finn Allen took full advantage of the wayward bowling. Allen smashed a breathtaking 100 runs off only 47 balls, hitting ten massive sixes to seal the game early.

Kolkata chased down the target in just over 14 overs, marking their fourth straight win. A disappointed Axar Patel said the team must now look toward the future. He suggested that management might start testing players from the bench to prepare for next season. For Delhi, the long journey back to the top requires fixing these tactical errors. The captain remains hopeful that reviewing these tough moments will eventually lead to a much stronger comeback.

NEW DELHI

Kolkata Knight Riders opener Finn Allen has opened up about his recent struggles after smashing a brilliant century against the Delhi Capitals. The Kiwi batter's incredible 100 runs off 47 balls powered his team to a vital eight-wicket victory. This win keeps Kolkata's playoff hopes alive while ending Delhi's chances for the season.

Before this standout performance, Allen faced a difficult period. After a series of low scores, he was dropped from the starting lineup for three matches. Reflecting on that time away, Allen admitted he had been putting too much pressure on himself to succeed. He explained that being left out actually helped him find a fresh perspective and a much-needed mental refresh.

During the match, Kolkata faced early trouble while chasing a target of 143. After losing two quick wickets, Allen decided to change his approach. Instead of playing too aggressively, he focused on batting deeper into the innings. He told himself that if he could survive for at least 40 balls, the runs would eventually come. His strategy worked perfectly as he hit ten massive sixes to dominate the bowlers. Allen's powerful knock was supported by teammate Cam Green, who remained unbeaten as they reached the target in just 14.2 overs. For Kolkata, this marks their fourth win in a row after a rocky start to the tournament. Allen is now focused on staying responsible at the crease, proving that patience and a clear mind can lead to massive success.

After being dropped for poor form, Finn Allen returned with a stunning century, hitting ten sixes to keep Kolkata's playoff dreams alive against Delhi Capitals.

Kolkata's star all-rounder ready for any role

NEW DELHI

Kolkata Knight Riders star Cameron Green has declared he is fully fit and ready to bowl his maximum quota. After overcoming an early season back injury, the Australian all-rounder confirmed he is "100% ready" to deliver four overs whenever his team needs him. This news comes as Kolkata celebrates their fourth consecutive victory in the tournament.

In the win against Delhi, Green played a vital role by taking a wicket and scoring an unbeaten 33 runs. Initially, Green played only as a batter to manage his fitness. Now, he feels his bowling adds great depth to the squad. He explained that having multiple options, like fellow all-rounder Anukul Roy, allows the team to be flexible. Green is happy to bowl during the powerplay, the middle overs, or even at the high-pressure end of the game.

NEW DELHI

Former Indian cricketer Deep Dasgupta has praised Kolkata Knight Riders all-rounder Anukul Roy for his standout performance this season.

Speaking after Kolkata's dominant eight-wicket victory over the Delhi Capitals, Dasgupta credited Roy's success to the clear role and consistent backing provided by his team management.

Roy was the game-changer at Arun Jaitley Stadium, finishing with impressive figures of 2-31. He turned the match in Kolkata's favor by dismissing the dangerous Pathum Nissanka right after his half-century. Just two balls later, he bowled Tristan Stubbs, sparking a major collapse for Delhi. This disciplined bowling helped restrict the hosts to a low total of 142, which Kolkata chased down easily.

Dasgupta highlighted that Roy's confidence grew from a strong domestic season and the security of knowing he is a regular starter. The left-arm spinner has become a vital weapon for Kolkata, often bowling difficult overs during the powerplay.

NADA warns Star Cricketers over missed tests

NEW DELHI

The National Anti-Doping Agency (NADA) has issued formal notices to Indian cricket stars Yashasvi Jaiswal and Shafali Verma. The warnings follow a "whereabouts failure," meaning the athletes were not present at their specified locations for mandatory drug testing. This development has sent ripples through the sports community as both players are key figures in the national teams.

As members of the Registered Testing Pool, athletes must provide a daily 60-minute window for no-notice testing. Reports indicate that testers arrived to find Jaiswal on December 17 and Verma on November 7 of last year, but neither player was found. When NADA reached out for explanations in February, both cricketers allegedly failed to respond, leading to the official recording of a "first missed test." Jaiswal and Verma now have seven days to explain their absence. This situation is critical because anti-doping rules are very strict regarding player locations. If an athlete records three whereabouts failures within a single year, it is treated as a major violation. Such an offense can lead to a suspension from all competitive cricket for up to four years. The Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) and the ICC have been informed of the situation. Both young stars must now be extremely careful with their filings to avoid further complications. This incident serves as a stern reminder to all professional athletes about the importance of administrative compliance in the fight to keep sports clean and fair.

NADA Warns Young Stars Over Missed Tests

Yashasvi Jaiswal and Shafali Verma face warnings after missing mandatory drug tests. Both stars failed to update their locations, leading to "whereabouts failures." NADA recorded these as first offenses after the pair ignored follow-up emails. They must stay compliant now to avoid a potential four-year sports ban.

Delhi Capitals director slams team after defeat

NEW DELHI

Delhi Capitals' Director of Cricket, Venugopal Rao, did not hold back after his team's devastating eight-wicket loss to the Kolkata Knight Riders. Following the match at Arun Jaitley Stadium, Rao stated that the team failed in all three departments: batting, bowling, and fielding. This latest defeat leaves Delhi in eighth place, making their path to the playoffs nearly impossible.

The game started well for Delhi, with openers Pathum Nissanka and KL Rahul providing an explosive start. However, the momentum vanished quickly. Rao pointed out a crucial six-over stretch where the team failed to hit a single boundary. Despite a late effort from Ashutosh Sharma, the middle-order collapse meant Delhi could only post 142 runs.

Rao emphasized that in a high-stakes tournament like the IPL, teams cannot afford to lose focus during such critical patches.

The disappointment continued as Delhi's bowlers and fielders struggled to contain Kolkata's Finn Allen, who smashed a hundred to end the game early. With only three matches left, Rao signaled that major changes are coming. He mentioned that the management is now ready to test players from the bench to see who can perform under pressure.

Delhi must win every remaining game by a large margin to stay in the race. They now travel to Dharamsala to face the Punjab Kings on Monday. For Rao and the coaching staff, the focus has shifted to individual accountability as they desperatey try to salvage what remains of their difficult 2026 season.

Chennai target playoffs against struggling Lucknow

CHENNAI

The Chennai Super Kings are gearing up for a high-stakes battle against the Lucknow Super Giants. Currently sitting in sixth place, Chennai desperately needs a victory at their home ground, Chepauk, to keep their playoff dreams alive. Despite an inconsistent season, the five-time champions hope the familiar home conditions will give them the edge they need to break into the top four.

Chennai's strategy centers heavily on star batter Sanju Samson. Samson has become the team's "backbone," often deciding the game's fate with his powerful starts. While captain Ruturaj Gaikwad has struggled with consistency, his recent form shows signs of a comeback. Fans are also keeping a close eye on the dugout, as legend Mahendra Singh Dhoni remains sidelined with a persistent calf injury and has yet to play a match this season.

On the other side, the Lucknow Super Giants are having a nightmare tournament. Stuck at the bottom of the table, the team has struggled despite a record-breaking 27-crore price tag for captain Rishabh Pant. However, a recent stunning century by Mitchell Marsh ended a six-match losing streak, giving Lucknow a tiny glimmer of hope. Injuries to key players like Mohsin Khan have only added to their misery.

While Lucknow holds a slight lead in past head-to-head meetings, Chennai enters this match as the clear favorite. With spin-friendly conditions expected, Chennai will look to their bowlers to stifle Lucknow's middle order.

For both teams, this match is more than just a game, it is a fight for survival in a wide-open race.

RAIPUR

Star batter Suryakumar Yadav is set to join the Mumbai Indians for their critical match against Royal Challengers Bengaluru. Despite recently celebrating the birth of his daughter, the Indian T20I captain has confirmed his availability to team management. He is expected to arrive in Raipur shortly, providing a massive boost to a side fighting to keep its season alive.

While Suryakumar's return is certain, leadership remains a question mark. Regular captain Hardik Pandya missed the previous game due to back spasms and is currently under medical assessment. The team's medical staff will monitor Pandya's fitness during training this evening before deciding if he can lead the squad.

KKR build momentum for playoffs

NEW DELHI

Former cricketer Aditya Tare believes the Kolkata Knight Riders have completely transformed their season at the perfect time. After a disastrous start with five consecutive losses, Kolkata has surged back into contention with four straight victories. Their latest triumph was a dominant eight-wicket win over the Delhi Capitals, which Tare says makes them a serious threat for the top four.

The turnaround is fueled by a team finally clicking as a single unit. Tare noted that the spin attack has come back to life, while the fast bowlers are taking crucial wickets. He praised the current form of Finn Allen and Cameron Green, whose powerful batting has made difficult chases look easy. Allen recently smashed a breathtaking century in just 14.2 overs to secure their most recent win.

In contrast, Tare was highly critical of Delhi's performance. He highlighted a shocking collapse where the team managed only 10 runs off 30 balls during the middle overs. He described this stretch of play as too passive for T20 cricket, noting that the batters failed to show any intent to pressure the bowlers. Only a late cameo from Ashutosh Sharma saved Delhi from an even lower total.

Kolkata's strategy of building momentum during the "business end" is a classic championship approach. With their confidence at an all-time high, the team will now hunt for a fifth consecutive win. As the race for the playoffs tightens, Kolkata's newfound balance makes them the team no one wants to face.

RCB SEEK BATTING BOOST TO END SLUMP

RAIPUR

Royal Challengers Bengaluru are desperate to find their missing spark as they prepare to face Mumbai Indians. After a disappointing run of form, the team's powerful batting lineup is under immense pressure to deliver and snap a painful two-match losing streak that has stalled their season.

The defending champions started this year's IPL with incredible momentum. They looked unstoppable in the early stages, winning four of their opening matches with ease. At that point, securing a spot in the playoffs seemed like a certainty for the Bengaluru fans. However, the tides have turned quickly in this unpredictable tournament. Having lost three of their last five games, the team now finds itself in the middle of a worrying mid-season crisis.

The primary concern for the management is the sudden dip in scoring power. While the openers provided solid starts early on, the middle order has struggled to finish games under pressure. Against a confident Mumbai side, RCB knows that another slip-up could jeopardize their standing in the points table.

Captain and coaches are likely focusing on rebuilding the players' confidence in the nets.

For Bengaluru, the clash in Raipur is more than just another game, it is a vital opportunity to prove they still have the heart of a champion.

If their stars can regain their rhythm and find the boundary once again, they can get their campaign back on track and silence the doubters before the playoff race tightens.

Fast bowler Ashok Sharma chases speed dream

JAIPUR

Gujarat Titans pacer Ashok Sharma has become the talk of the IPL 2026 season with his incredible speed. The 23-year-old recently made headlines by bowling a 154.2 kph delivery against the Rajasthan Royals. This lightning-fast ball is currently the quickest recorded in the tournament this year, fulfilling a goal Sharma has held since his childhood.

Growing up, Sharma spent hours watching legendary fast bowlers like Brett Lee and Dale Steyn. He often wondered what it felt like to bowl at such extreme speeds. Now that he is consistently crossing the 150 kph mark himself, he describes the experience as a major personal milestone. While he is proud of his individual pace, he insists his main focus remains helping his team win matches.

Sharma credited Gujarat Titans head coach Ashish Nehra for his rapid improvement. Nehra has taught him that speed is useless without control. The coach insists that every fast bowler must first master "Test-match lengths" before trying variations like yorkers or slower balls.

Keerthy Suresh Battles Mysskin In Intense Courtroom Drama Film

Actor Keerthy Suresh is set to appear in the legal thriller Sathyavan Savithiri, where she plays a junior advocate fighting for justice against her senior lawyer, played by Mysskin. Directed by Praveen S Vijaay, the film promises an emotional courtroom battle mixed with commercial entertainment.

According to the director, the story focuses on the difference between law and justice. Keerthy's character Savithiri becomes deeply involved in her husband's legal case and chooses to fight for justice, while her senior believes only in following the law. These differences eventually lead them into a courtroom clash. Actor Charukesh, known for the series Heart Beat, plays Keerthy's husband in the film.

Praveen revealed that he asked both Keerthy and Mysskin to behave naturally rather than create dramatic characters. He wanted their performances to feel realistic and close to their real personalities.

The director also credited actress Aishwarya Rajesh for helping the project move forward. He shared that she encouraged him to narrate the story to Keerthy after he had been trying for nearly six years to reach the actress.

Praveen said his earlier experience as co-director and dialogue writer for Gargi helped him design the courtroom scenes. He attended real court sessions for around 20 days to understand legal proceedings better.

The director originally wanted to title the film Savithiri, but changed it to avoid confusion with Keerthy's earlier role in Nadigaiyar Thilagam.
